Doing Just Now-Other Sporting News. The question as to where the New Yorks will play next season is just as far from being settled now as it has been at any time. To be sure the club has many offers, but, everything considered, only one or two places have thus far been seen that will do. Grounds such as the New York Club will need must be within easy access of all parts of the city. For this reason the Staten Island grounds are looked upon as about the best that are now in sight. and one of the directors of the club will make a trip to Staten Island to-day to inspect them. One big advantage of the location is that everything is ready there for ball playing, and it would therefore be a fine place for a temporary home for the New Yorks. Of course the club would never think of making their home there permanently. The Staten Island Ferry Company has offered big inducements to get the New Yorks to go to St. George. They promise to run enough boats to carry any number of passengers, and to sell round trip tickets for ten cents. However, nothing can be done until President Day comes home. Director Gordon, who is the only man in town who can net for Mr. Day, said yesterday that no one had een authorized to make any arrangements for the club; that Mr. Day would come home whenever it need be to look after anything important that might come up. Mr. Gordon acted for Mr. Day only so far as the Polo grounds Were concerned.

Manager Mutric is making notes and securing maps of all the grounds that come under his observation. He said yesterday that the number of offers which he had received had increased to twenty-seven, and that they comprised everything from a building lot to a tenacre field. Not one of the New York officials know by what right Walter Watrous was putting himself forward in the affairs of the club. They said that he owned no stock, and was in ne way interested in the club.

Vice-President C. T. Dillingham had little to sny yesterday about a new home for the world's champions. He had considered the question of going to Jersey City, Long Island City, Staten Island, and above the Harlem River, and had made up his mind that if the club did take temperary grounds he should favor Staten Island above all the other places. Then," he said, "the club can take its time in getting a new place. The disadvantage of the Staten Island ground is that it is too cold there for base ball during the greater part of the season." He thought, though, that by fall the club could secure other grounds. When asked about the Long Island City and Jersey City grounds, he said he did not think that the club could afford to leave Manhattan Island permanently. This was its home, and it should stay here. The people of New York. he thought, didn't care to travel on two or three car lines to go to a ball game.

Manager Mutrie said yesterday that one person had offered to furnish grounds and to put $25,000 in the club if a certain amount of stock could be had for him. When Mr. Dillingham was asked about this offer he said:

I know of a dozen such made within the last year, but there is no stock for sale. Besides, I have made propositions to several of tnese men, and I have never heard from them again. The worst of the matter is that as soon as we go to look at a place that may be at all eligible for a ball ground the price is put up all eligible for a ball ground the price is put up at once.

It is understood that the owner of the Coogan property at 155th street would let the club have it at a very reasonable figure if he could secure stock in the club; but the President of the New Yorks has refused to make any such arrangement. However, there is still a slight glimmer of hope that the New Yorks may yet an the Coogan site. This hope comes from the fact that the Coogan property, for which $500,000 has been asked, will be sold at auction on Feb. 21, and may be bought up by the elevated railroad in which case it would be to the advantage of the road to have the club play there. work of preparing to move the sheds at the Polo grounds was continued yesterday; that is, as Manager Mutrie put it, a few pins were put inder one end of the stables. There was a mysterious move on the part of the New York men yesterday. It could not be learned what was going on, however.

Instanapolis, Feb. 13.—It was supposed that Glasscock would be the manager of the Indianapolis Club, but the negotiations have collapsed. He was offered $2.500 salary as player, and $1.000 extra to serve as captain and manager. He wanted $3.500, but divided differently—$3.000 for his services as a player, and $500 for the other. This would place his playing salary in excess of the $2.500 limit flyed by the classification the being a class "A" man), and this Mr. Brush would not consent to. Glasscock was evidently afraid that he would not be a success as a manager, hence he wanted to get as much money as possible as a player. It is his own fault that he is not to be manager. It would have given him an excel-lent opportunity to show what "stuff"he is lent opportunity to show what "stuff" he is made of.

There is danger now that his failure to get the place may make him a little "sore" and cause bad feeling otherwise. In all probability he will captain the team, however, and will get extra snarry for this, Glasscock writes that the only two League clubs that are observing the classification and sulary limit are Indianapolis and Washington. This is said here to be bad for the scheme, which will only prove effective if rigidly adhered to. President Brush, it is rumored, has a manager selected, but he will not talk. Frank Bancrott is a possibility, but not a great probability. The chances are that Pitcher Getzein will be secured in a few days.

Philadelphia, Feb. 13.—The news that Manager Sharsig has proposed to play a series with the New Yorks at Gloueester was carried to President Reach of the Philadelphia Club to-day, Said he." If Manager Sharsig has been quoted right he is saying what is not so. The Philadelphia Club never gave the Athleties the privilege of playing more League clubs in this city than we could play Association clubs. It would be manifestly unfair to expect such a thing. I decline to be drawn into a controversy with the Athletic Club. As to the city of Gloucester being outside the limits presented by the Athletic Club, that is a question which can be easily settled, but I will have nothing to say about it unless the games are arranged." Mr. Sharsig is positive that the Philadelphia Club gave him permission to play all the League clubs in this city that he could arrange with. "The Philadelphia Club has treated us unairly," said he, "and I purpose to play the New Yorks in spite of them if Mutrie will agree." Considerable feeling has been aroused, and there is a report that if there is any further trouble, the Athleties will decline to play a series with the Philadelphia.

This is how the Sporting Times views the de-

This is how the Sporting Times views the destruction of the Polo grounds:

"That portion of the metropolis known as the Polo grounds, and dear to the memory of all lovers of base ball, was visited by the horny hand of inbor on Thursday last, and, armed with an order from a court, the workmen began to descented the grand old enclosure. Like it is the feelings of the sellowers while every sound produced by the hammer and chisel in the demolision was anything but pleasant to the ears of the coterie of spectators. No doubt namously field were recalled. But such is justice, "There is no more necessity for cutting a street through the Fast River. If the growth of that portion of 1.9 city warranted the action, nothing could be said in objection to the work. But it does not. One Handred and Eleventh street and a number of other streets in that vicinity are covered with grass, inhabited by goats, and as desolate as the Sahara Desert. Under these circumstances it is hard to conceive what prompted the act. But some day, perhaps, the true inwardness of the scheme may leak out. Who knows but this is the work of speculators anxious to have streets cut through above the park to better their property, so that it will bring a better price in the market? It such is the case they have been guilty of a gross injustice to our sport-loving public, and it may some day be resented by an indignant populace.

"The residents of Harlem may have something to say in the matter. The Polo grounds have been a source of revenue to the business men of the community, and the place itself is the only spot, aside from Central Park, where a breath of fresh air can be had. When the matter was first snoken of they took umbrage at once and got up a bir partition. But this was overlooked. The matter was taken to the courts. Judge Ingraham decided against the New York Chib minamement, and the result is that New Yo Charley Snyder, the veteran catcher, like Latham, goes into winter quarters season after season with not more than enough in his purse to pay a week's board. The only difference in the two men lies in the fact that it is a mystery to the average ball player what Latham does with his money, while Snyder's impover-shed condition is easily explained. Latham does not drink worth speaking about, neither does he smoke, chew, or gamble, The same thing, with one exception, can be said of Snyder. He is not a drinking man, but a greater gambler never lived.—Good Democrat.

The many clubs in search of pitchers should not overlook Joe Corrigan of the defanct Atlas Club. He is not 18 years of aze, and so has lots of time to learn. It is true the Atlas lost a majority of their games, but it was no lault of Corrigan's. Joe has struck out as many as three in an innine, but the catchers would not hold on to the third strike. Such a disadvantage is enough to dishearten any pitcher. On last Decoration Day he pitched two games against the Little Fails (X.J.) team, and allowed them only 10 hits in both games, striking out 39 men. Joe says he expects to do great work noxt season. "Says Arlie Latham of the St Louis Browns:

Von der Abe makes me tired. He treats his players like a lot of boss, and don't know how to appreciate hard, working men. He gave Comiskey and myself $200 each last fall of the money be promised the boys in the world's series and told us not to give it away. When I signed a few weeks ago be gave me $100, and now he writes me that I have drawn $300 advance money. He still owes me my share of the money given him by the Association. I'm the only one of the crowd who dare call the big blaff down. I am dead sick of working for him, and so are the rest of the men. Fred Williamson and Al Quincey, two barbers in Hoboken, met in a saloon on Third street on Monday evening and quarrelled. Wil-liamson had dismissed Quincey from his employ, and they concluded to go to a convenient om and settle it with bare knuckles.

Williamson had the advantage, being taller and heavier, but Quincey was the most scientific. They fought like demons and paid no heed whatever to the order of the referee to break, nummelling each other until they were bathed in blood. In the sixth round william sen showed signs of weakening. Quincey floored his opponent twice in the seventh and had all the best of the eighth. Williamson's secords arged him to throw up the spenge, but he was rame, and relused. Williamson did better work in the ninth, and landed several hard blows, but Quincev was evidently waiting his chance, for a moment later, when Williamson tried to lead, he jumped quickly to one side, and, letting go his right, caught his man on the ear, and the battle was over.

The fight was good one, and, as one of the spectators put it, was worth going many miles to see. The nill is the talk of the town, as both of the principals are well known. # WESTPORT WINS THE MAIN.

Lively Cockfights on which Stamford Sports Lost Their Cash.

NORWALK, Conn., Feb. 12.-The fourth main in the cockfighting tournament between Westport and Stamford birds commenced last night and ended at daylight this morning. New York rules governed, and thirteen pairs were weighed in but only nine battles were necessary. The conditions of the main were $75 a battle and $300 on the general result. Westport pitted a light muff, 5 pounds 13 ounces, against Stamford's light ginger, one ounce lighter. The muff won by a lucky upper thrust, killing its foe in 19 minutes. Westport produced a blue pyle, 5 pounds 10 ounces, and Stamford a spangle white, one ounce heavier. Westport again carried off the honors, the blue pyle killing the spangle white by a neck thrust. Odds of 10 to 8 were offered by Westport.

Stamford dropped a dark ginger, 5 pounds 8 ounces, in front of Westport's brown red of the same weight. The Stamford bird, after sixteen ounces. In front of Westport's brown red of the same weight. The Stamford bird, after sixteen minutes, yielded up the ghost and Westport had another battle to its credit.

Stamford brought out a hackle weighing 5 pounds 5 ounces and Westport a light pyle weighing 5 pounds 3 ounces. The light pyle was a good fighter and did efficient work on the neck and breast of the Stamford bird. but the long-legged hackle with its two ounces more of flesh finally laid out the pyle after thirty-one minutes. Stamford had now regained a small portion of her lost wealth.

In the fifth battle the Westport chicken was a biue pyle, 5 pounds 1 ounce, while Stamford brought out a spangle white, 5 pounds. The birds used the gaffs well. The biue pyle became daz-d after twenty minutes, and the spangle white, two minutes later, was declared the winner. Stamford stock was now above par.

In the sixth battle Westport showed a dark pyle, 4 pounds 15 ounces, and Stamford a handsome brown ginger, two ounces lighter. Both birds used the steels skillfully. The dark pyle proved too much for Stamford, killing the glinger in 18 minutes.

Stamford showed a hackle, 4 pounds 4 ounces, to Westport's light muff, two ounces heavier. This was the shortest fight of the main, the gamy muff killing the lighter hackle in 11 minutes. Westport had now won five of the seven battles.

In the eighth battle Westport produced a gamy muff killing the lighter backle in 11 minutes. Westport had now won five of the seven battles.

In the eighth battle Westport produced a copper back weighing 4 pounds, and pitted against it was a dark muff 1 ounce heavier. The copper back, although soon badly wounded, was game to the backbone, and a final wicked thrust of its steel pierced its foe through the brain. Westport had now but one more battle to win, while Stamford, to redeem her lost money, had six victories yet to score.

Westport in the ninth round brought out a light hackle, 3 pounds 11 ounces, the Stamford chicken being 2 ounces heavier. This was the slowest light of the main, and was finally won by Westport after 35 minutes. The Westport men went home carrying nearly $2,000 of Stamford's money.

Each town has now won two mains out of the series of five, and the odd main will be held somewhere near Stamford in about three weeks.

From the Norristown Times. There is a large white male Angora rabbit

There is a large white male Angora rabble that hops about the Rambo House stable yard that excites considerable attention from the fact that, instead of seeking safety upon the appearance of any strange dog in the yard, it at once becomes pugnacious and attacks the intruding canine. The rabbit was as timid as any other representative of its species when it was placed in the yard several months ago to keep company with a large handsome St. Bernard dog that is familiarly known by the name of Topsy. A friendship sprang up at once between the two, and their duly romps together surprise every one visiting the hotel.

The other day a well-known physician entered the yard accompanied by a very large dog. He saw the rabbit and dog at play, and was greatly surprised and amused to see the rabbit catch the dog by the throat and shake it vigorously. He expressed doubts that the rabbit would attack his dog in the same manner, and, upon being assured it would urged his dog on. The dog made a spring at the rabbit, which was on the alert, and secured its favorite grip upon the dog's throat, where it clung, midst the howls of the dog, until compelled to let go its hold.
